Table: Resolved Issues

Issue ID	Internal ID	Description
342873	PFTMP-3324	Previously, users in time zones that were more than a day ahead or behind the United States could not enter date information correctly. When a value was entered in the date field, the value was deducted by one day. An attempt to re-enter the date resulted in an error message. This issue has been corrected.
320660	PFTMP-3224	Previously, a separator was required for when entering a value of 1000 or more in a numerical field. For example, 1,000. As of this release, this separator is no longer required. For example, users can now enter the value as 1000.
319251	PFTMP-3219	Previously, on the Charts page, the information about each chart would only display the last date that the data for a chart was updated. However, there was no information about the last date that the chart itself was updated. In this release, a new column, Last Updated, has been added. This column reflects that last time that a chart was modified. Please note that the date/time information displayed is based on the user's workstation. For example, if a user creates a chart at 12:00 pm ET, a user in the PT time zone will see the chart as being created at 9:00 am PT.

332000	PFTMP-3301	In this Release, we have added a date and time stamp information for Planning Charts which displays when a user accesses the chart drop-down list. Please note that the date/time information displayed is based on the user's workstation. For example, if a user creates a chart at 12:00 pm ET, a user in the PT time zone will see the chart as being created at 9:00 am PT.
311981	PFTMP-3244	Previously, in the Position Types tab, the Position Type field wrapped to a second line, causing issues with the alignment. This issue has been corrected.
